CHILD LABOR.

As a result of the visit of the Labor delegates here last Tuesday Redcliff came in for some publicity over charges made against the Glass plant for alleged violation of the Factory Act. The charges caused lively discussions at the meetings both here and at the Hat. In his remarks on the question Mr. Roper, one of the delegates, is reported in the Calgary Albertan to have said: "If the convention drops this matter the report will go over the province that a hot headed labor man had lost his head and commenced something he couldn't finish."

We do not say any of those who started the fracas lost their heads, but it is quite evident from subsequent developments that some of them did not use their heads in the interests of those that are supposed to be protecting. If they had they would have found that the children of some of their brother laborers were taking advantage of the school holiday to get sufficient money to pay for Victory Bonds the savings of which were to be used to give them more advanced education later on they would have learned that the girl about whom they complained pleaded to be allowed to work that she might be able to help her parents provide the necessary shoes and clothing for herself and other members of family to enable them to attend school, while others were glad of the opportunity to get a little extra money while school was closed in order to help pay the additional influenza expenses. They would also have found that the children were not being kept out of school to work, as there was no school open.

Then there is another side to the question. If those who lodged the complaint were sincere in their desire to see that the law was enforced to the letter why did they stop at the management of the plant? The same Factory Act that prohibits the employment of child labor also provides a heavy penalty for parents who allow their children under age to work. This law does not exempt parents who happen to be delegates to a labor convention.

While we make these few observations the Review wishes to make it plain that it is not now, never was and never will be in favor of child labor. We believe that nothing is too good for the children. They are children but once and should be surrounded with everything possible for their health, happiness and education. But there are always under our present system, extenuating circumstances and so long as these circumstances exist there are bound to be parents anxious to get employment for their children, and there are bound to be children pleading for work in order that they may, with the money they earn, enjoy some of the comforts and privileges enjoyed by other more fortunate children.

We are heartily in sympathy with any legislation which provides for better control over our children but in our opinion the Factory Act starts at the wrong end of the string if it be the success it should be. So long as there are poor people with large families to cloth, feed, educate and provide medicine for just so long will there be children pleading for employment. This being the case if would, in our opinion, be more to the point if an attempt were first made to remove the obstacles which are in the way of the proper enforcement of the Factory Act. The labor unions—and every other organization for that matter—should first of all see that the state provides free education. Free in every sense of the word, even to the extent of supplying clothing if such were necessary; state provided medical examination, medical treatment and state maintained hospitals. With these established and in operation conditions would right themselves and there would be no need for a Factory Act. At least there would be no excuse for not enforcing such an act to the letter.

A DISTINCT LOSS.

The death of Rev. G. Lawson Gordon means a distinct loss to the town of Redcliff and leaves a vacancy in the hearts of his flock which will be sorely felt and hard to fill.

His many acts of kindness, his untiring energies even when laboring under bodily pain and his gentlemanly example and manner have all served to endear him to the people with whom he came in contact. He was what might be termed a gentleman of the old school and it is to be regretted that this type are growing all too scarce, especially at a time when gentlemanly acts and considerations are too often brushed aside in the mad rush for personal gain and self aggrandizement.

During the past four years, despite his age and infirmities, he has been an ardent supporter of all patriotic movements. On every opportunity he poured out his soul to the God who gave it, in humble supplication for the coming of peace and the ultimate triumph of right and justice. At the public gathering on the day the armistice was signed his prayer of thankfulness touched the hearts of all who heard it.

That he lived to see his prayers answered and that he passed out of this life at the dawn of a day which was ever sacred to his heart is a fitting end to so noble a character.

ITALY'S POSITION.

In his excursion into Italy, President Wilson is putting his diplomatic ability to the severest test. It is in Italy that the most definite application of policies of disinterestedness as opposed to national aggrandizement and a policy of enlightened selfish national interest are involved.

Italy is in the throes of a revolutionary fever. She went into the war with a disunited popular element and her ability to stay in and to bear the burdens she did and one of the most remarkable accomplishments of the war. Now Italy comes out of the war exhausted and with territorial aspirations call for the occupation of the coast of the Adriatic opposite her shores, a claim that is in direct opposition to those of the new state of Jugoslavia.

Assuming that the affairs of the world are to be operated in the future on an international basis in which the principles of the golden rule shall prevail and in which there shall be no danger of foreign aggression, Italy has little need of this Italian assumption. The contrary she has direct and very immediate need. Her claim upon the Allies are tremendously superior to those of the new states of Jugoslavia. In spite of that they come in conflict with the idealist principle of self-determination, no annexation and national aggrandizement. The situation has already resulted in a cabinet crisis in Italy.

At the open meeting of the Trades convention held here last Tuesday evening one of the members of the Glass Blowers union asked why drugs were so high. We know of two reasons which might account for this. One is that the men who make bottles in which drugs are sold got an increase in their wages during the past year, and another is that the Alberta Pharmaceutical Association is one of the strongest unions in Alberta. The world moves in a circle and so do its people. "No one lives upon himself alone."

Why is not constitution proceeding with the Hat Hanna railway? The road is badly needed. Settlers estimate that the cost of taking their grain to market is at least 30 cents a bushel. What was proceeding when labor was scarce and shut down now that labor is very plentiful—Calgary Albertan.

U.S. To Decide on

The Russian Problem

The wheels of the American peace campaign are turning faster now, and immediately upon President Wilson's return from Italy they will commence to revolve at top speed.

The one question which is certain to occupy the president upon his return and likely to be among the first to be presented to the peace conference is: "What is to be done in Russia?" The feeling grows that the Bolsheviks, gaining strength daily not only in Russia, but also in Germany, and preaching in Roumania, where the Bolsheviks fought with soldiers in the streets of Bucharest, constitutes a menace to the peace of Europe more serious than many have realized.

Information from Germany is that the Liebknecht or Spartacus group is gaining power with a rapidity that can be viewed only with uneasiness, not only as indicating the spread of the red pest, but also casting unpleasant doubts upon the possibility of finding a peace-worthy German government.

Therefore, the president and his advisers are faced with the immediate necessity of deciding exactly what is America's Russian policy. Although he has often been stated that he will help the Russian people mould their own future, the time has come for a clean-cut decision as to how they are to be helped—Minneapolis Tribune.

Too Many Requests

For Soldiers Return

The military department desires it to be known that an excessive number of requests for priority of return of soldiers from overseas is being received both at military headquarters, Ottawa, and at the overseas ministry, London, England. These requests cannot be acceded to nor can consideration be given to them unless they are based upon compassionate grounds and are forwarded and recommended through the various channels in the usual way. It is pointed out that demobilization must be carried on in a systematic way.

If the door is open to return those for whom application is made by friends in Canada in priority to others the inevitable result will be widespread dissatisfaction and complaint of favoritism on the part of the less fortunate soldiers with perhaps prior claims and longer service. It is a natural that requests should be made for the return of men to resume their civil vocations and it is recognized that it is in the public interest that men for whom civil employment is waiting should not be held overseas longer than is absolutely necessary.

On the other hand, men are being returned in accordance with a settled policy at the rate of many thousands per month, namely 20,000 per month during December and January, and 20,000 per month thereafter.

Count Hertling, former Imperial German Chancellor, died Saturday night. He was ill for several days.

African Nationalist

Want Peace Delegates

The movement of the South African Nationalists under Gen. Hertzog for their separate representative at the peace conference has been discouraged by the Imperial government.

Governor-General Buxton has informed the South African Nationalists that their recent resolution favoring the dispatch of separate delegations to Europe with a view of securing South African independence was held before King George who referred it to his advisers, but refrained from giving any direction with it.

Mr. Hon. Walter Long, the colonial secretary, in communicating this information to the governor-general, adds that the Imperial government's reply last April to the Transvaal Nationalists' motion was applicable also to his instance, namely that under the South African constitution the South African government and parliament alone can be regarded by the British government, authorized to speak on behalf of the people of South Africa. The majority's government, therefore, said Mr. Long could not undertake to enter into discussion with any private body or persons.

Berlin is Now in

State of Anarchy

Berlin is in a state of complete anarchy and civil war has begun here, according to the Munich correspondent of the Politikon. His communication, he says, is based on telephone messages from the German capital.

All the banks are barricaded and a great number of the public buildings are in the hands of the Spartacists or extreme radical group. Thousands of armed workmen of the Spartacist faction, the correspondent reports, are crowding the streets, and at several points firing has begun. The sound of machine gun fire could be heard from all parts of Berlin.

The message reported the intention of the government to make an effort to storm the building of the police guards later in the day and take possession of all the machine guns and cannon there. The Kaiser, Liebknecht, the Spartacan leader has been seen here and there about the city organizing his troops for the final fight with the correspondents says is expected to begin very soon. Hundreds of persons are reported fleeing from the city.

Britain and Holland

Agree on Ex-Kaiser

The British and Dutch governments have arrived at an agreement regarding the status of the former German emperor, according to the Telegram from The Hague. The details of the agreement have not been announced.

More British Prisoners

Than Were Recorded

There are 15,000 more British prisoners in Germany than the British records show, so that a number of men previously given up as dead or missing will return to their homes. The British had contemplated getting the last 30,000 prisoners out of Germany within a fortnight, but the German records show that there remain in German hands 35,000 men of whom 15,000, through the failure of the Germans to report their capture and through the men's failure to communicate with friends, had been listed as dead.

Solution Requires

Purity of Purpose

In the Italian parliament at a joint reception was given President Wilson by the members of the senate and members of the chamber of deputies. The function was an important one. The large and distinguished gathering gave the president an ovation.

President Wilson's address in the chamber of deputies in part was as follows:

"We cannot stand in the shadow of this war without knowing that the things which are in some senses most difficult that those we have undertaken because, while it is easy to speak of rights and justice, it is difficult to work them out in practice, and there will be required a purity of motives and disinterestedness of object which the world has never witnessed before in the councils of nations."

WANTED—Young lady as assistant at Post Office, Redcliff; must be resident; make application by mail; position open at once.

Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Stonor left early last Monday morning on a motorizing trip to Lethbridge and other points. It is a great country that permits of this kind of travelling in January.

The library is one of the busiest departments of Blundell's store. No wonder, with forty new copyright books just added. New members enrolled for one dollar. Join today.

Mr. A. S. Savill of the Redcliff hotel, was taken seriously ill after returning from his Christmas vacation. We are glad to report, however, that he is now improving.

The officers of the Returned Soldiers Welcome League gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $6.00 as a donation from the Redcliff orchestra through Mr. Watson.

The work of putting up poles and wiring same from the power plant in Medicine Hat to the Glass plant is now completed and it will not be long till the plant here will be run by electricity from that source.

Work on the addition to the Rolling Mill building where the open hearth furnace is to be installed is progressing rapidly these days. The addition is now about completed and the installing of the machinery will be proceeded with at once.

Five Italians were up before the Magistrate last Saturday charged with gambling in one of the Chinese gambling houses. They were each fined $5.00 and costs. We understand a few more are to be rounded up in the near future, but the chief thinks they are not all Italians.

Dr. Orr, who failed from Medicine Hat, has been promoted to the rank of major and has been made an "Officer of the Order of the British Empire." The latter distinction was conferred upon him for inventing a new disinfectant for exterminating trench lice. The "cooties" certainly played an important part in the great war.

Mrs. Frost entertained the members of the old M. U. M. club at her home last Monday evening in honor of her daughter, Mrs. H. Butts, who leaves shortly for Chillicothe, Ill. Among those present were Mrs. Butts, Mrs. J. Calderwood, Mrs. C. Hargrave, Miss McKay, Miss Allen, Miss Harden and Miss White.

James Merry, formerly manager of the Atlas Lumber yard here, paid a flying visit to town yesterday to renew old acquaintances. He was accompanied by Ald. Carter and Mr. Osborne of Swift Current. Jimmy has a rink up to the hospital at the Hat. Just as Jimmy was going out of the door he turned to us with a broad smile on his face and said, "Did you know I am married now?" He said in parting, "It's the only life."

Rev. R. C. Gibson leaves on the noon train Sunday for Alderson where he will hold service.

Blundell's are making preparations for their big January sale, which will start next week.

School opens on Monday. Get your school supplies at Blundell's. Phone 20.

Messrs. Cable & Smith have purchased the livery barn known as the Palace Livery, and will conduct a draying business in that stand.

The W. A. C. Andrews church will hold a whist drive and bean social in the Parish hall on Monday night next, commencing at eight o'clock. T. M. Smith, Sec. All are welcome.

There is a great agitation all over the province now for the completion of the C. N. R. branch from Hanna through Redcliff. According to latest reports it looks as though the government intends to proceed with the construction as soon as possible.
